ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL

The most encouraging sign in Denmark is that the man in the street is not as spoiled as is often said. This observation came from Danish Foreign Minister Uffe Ellemann-Jensen during his speech at the DACC Luncheon on September 26th. The Minister explained that if people see the Government follow a well-thought-out policy with a sound basis, they are more willing to go along. He believes that his two-year old Government has provided this kind of leadership.

Mr. Ellemann-Jensen said that as a result of the conservative Government's policies wage cost has been brought under control, inflation been reduced to the level of that of our trading partners, private investment is growing, and interest levels are not too far above those of our trading partners. Furthermore, the deficit on the balance of payments has been nearly halved and public spending stabilized.

November 1984

But Denmark is still not over the hill, the Minister said. The increasing activity in the private sector is putting a short-term pressure on the balance of payments. However, the Government hopes to be able to show a decline here in 1985 and to reach a balance in 3-4 years. There are also plans for further cuts in public expenditure.

In general the Government continues to be optimistic and full of confidence in the task of continuing the program it has started. "We strongly feel that this confidence is shared by the broad majority of the Danish population, who has to carry the burden of this policy", Uffe Ellemann-Jensen said.

DANISH MINISTER FOR CULTURAL AFFAIRS VISITS USA

The Danish Minister for Cultural Affairs, Mimi Stilling Jacobsen, visited the U.S. November 4-10. The main reason for the visit was to receive the "Covenant of Peace Award" from the Synagogue Council of America on behalf of the Danish government.

The Award was presented at a grand fundraising dinner at the Pierre Hotel in New York. The reason for choosing the Danish government as one of the recipients of this year's Award was the fortunate escape to Sweden in October 1943 of most of the Jewish community in Denmark. Other recipients were Mr. Abba Eban, former Minister of Foreign Affairs of Israel, and Mr. Eugene M. Grant, a prominent leader of the Jewish community.

While in New York City Mimi Stilling Jacobsen attended a rehearsal at the New York City Ballet with Peter Martins and visited the PS 1 art center in Brooklyn.

On November 9 the Minister opened an exhibition of contemporary Danish paintings at Squibb Gallery in Princeton, NJ. 13 recent Danish painters were represented, each with up to three works. The exhibition was put together by the Danish art historian Per Haubro Jensen who lives in New York. The opening was followed by a dinner at Scaticon-Princeton benefitting the American Diabetes Association.

I LOVE NEW YORK

For three years New York State has been the no. 1 state in attracting direct foreign investments. This goes both for the number of companies and for hard currency. Mr. William M.E. Clarkson, Executive Deputy Commissioner of the New York State Department of Commerce, proudly presented this record at a luncheon on October 25th.

Mr. Clarkson said that people often forget that there is more to New York than Manhattan. If the state were an independent country, its economy would be the ninth largest in the world. 50% of the total population of the United States and Canada live within a radius of 750 miles from Syracuse, the center of the state. Half the personal income of these same countries is made here.

New York State has an office in Europe (more specifically in Germany) as do most states in the union. Other representative offices are located in Japan and Canada. It is through this organization the state tries to promote direct foreign investments. Various services are offered to European companies in the search for joint venture partners.

QUEEN MARGRETHE II DESIGNS 1985 STAMP

H.M. Queen Margrethe II has often proved her artistic vein in designing Christmas stamps, the Christmas Spoon of 1984 and various book illustrations, and her latest endeavor is one of the 24 special-edition 1985 stamps. The Queen's design commemorates the 40th anniversary of the liberation of Denmark after World War II.

THE DANISH ECONOMY (PRIVATBANKEN)

The change in the Danish economy has become much more drastic than originally hoped. In 1984 and 1985 economic growth will thus be somewhat larger in this country than in the rest of Europe. In fact, Denmark is one of the few industrial countries of the West where economic growth is so large that it has brought about a direct fall in the unemployment rate. But it is even more gratifying that, unlike previous years, economic recovery has been produced by the private sector alone, while the activity in the public sector is more or less stagnant. In other words, the necessary structural adjustment of the Danish economy now being effected has not made the employment situation worse, nor has it caused the decline in the standard of living that most people considered inevitable just a year ago.

But the growth has a price - a price that is perhaps too high, as it seems that the deficit in the balance of payments will be D.kr. 16-17 bn, which is a considerable deterioration compared to 1983, when the deficit was just under D.kr. 11 bn. The increasing deficit may be explained by several circumstances.

First of all the recovery of the Danish economy has been stronger than originally anticipated. This applies to both private consumption and housing construction, but above all the recovery of commercial investments has been very considerable.

Private consumption is expected to increase by approx. 2.5% this year, although there is no basis for this increase in terms of the development of real disposable wages for the population. To a large extent the increase in private consumption has been financed by raising loans. And the increase in private consumption has mainly been concentrated on new cars, i.e. a very import-heavy consumption. This has resulted in a certain deterioration of the balance of payments. After years of stagnation, housing construction reacted strongly to the fall in the interest level. Housing investments increased substantially which is also a strain on the balance of payments. Commercial investments, and in particular industrial investments, increased substantially this year. Thus industrial investments are expected to increase by 50%. As about 80% of total investments in Danish trade and industry consists of imported goods, the large increase in industrial investments has very adverse effects on the balance of payments.

Finally, external conditions have been very unfriendly to the Danish economy and balance of payments. What we have in mind is, of course, the soaring dollar rate and the increasing international interest level. Approx. 30% of Danish imports are settled in US$, whereas only 17% of exports are paid in US$. This means that the strong dollar has the immediate effect that the terms of foreign trade deteriorate to the detriment of the balance of payments.

Finally the increasing international interest level constitutes a severe strain. The total external debt of Denmark is in excess of D.kr. 200 bn. Approx. 50% of the external debt is in US$. The increase of interest levels in the U.S. which has developed since the turn of the year will, converted on an annual basis, result in an increase in interest payments of approx. D.kr. 2 bn.

The increase in dollar and interest rates will strain the Danish balance of payments by approx. D.kr. 5 bn. This means that if the dollar and interest rates had not gone up, the Government's goal of a balance of payments deficit of approx. D.kr. 10 bn. would have been reached in spite of the fact that domestic demand has increased more rapidly than originally anticipated.

It is therefore unfair to say that the increasing deficit on the balance of payments is an expression of the Government's economic policy no longer being fruitful, but one might say that the economic policy is not sufficiently tight to neutralize the negative effect on the balance of payments of the soaring dollar and the increasing international interest level. On the other hand the economic policy and, in particular, the incomes policy and the declining Danish interest level, have been the main reasons why Danish industry has conquered new market shares in our most important export markets both in 1983 and 1984. Thus Danish industrial exports will this year increase by 7-8% in fixed prices, and this growth rate is expected to continue in 1985. But as mentioned above this impressive growth in industrial exports is not sufficient to neutralize the negative effect on the balance of payments of the soaring dollar and the increasing international interest level.

The Government has attempted to meet the deterioration of the deficit on the balance of payments by further tightening the fiscal policy. Taxes and duties were increased by D.kr. 1.5 bn in April, and there will be a D.kr. 5 bn cut in the 1985 budget. There is also no doubt the Government will tighten the incomes policy. The Minister of Finance has announced that the Government's aim for wage increases for the next agreement period is below 2%.

In light of the growing pressure on the balance of payments and the state budget there is an increasing need for further tightening of the fiscal policy. It should be remembered, however, that the incomes policy is the corner stone of the economic policy. There are fears that new taxes would more or less ruin chances of a further tightening of the incomes policy, and it is important to keep in mind that talks on the labor market will start late this year and end in April of next year. In fact the Government has a time problem; it cannot take the necessary steps against the balance of payments and the budget deficit problems right now. If on the other hand it waits too long the problems may increase to such an extent that they cannot be solved with normal incomes policy measures.

The Danish economy is still on the right track in other respects. The inflation rate is still under control, presently approx. 6.5% on an annual basis. The wage development is modest, and to all appearances the forthcoming collective bargainings will result in continued small wage increases. But the great deterioration of the deficit in the balance of payments shows how vulnerable the Danish economy is. It is necessary to revive investments and industrial production, but at the same time we cannot afford to let private consumption rise very much.

NOVO CRASH AT NYSE

The Danish biotech giant NOVO Industri A/S took yet another severe beating at the New York Stock Exchange in mid-October. After the announcement of projections for the 1984 earnings the stock price fell 25% in one day. Management announced that earnings and sales would increase only 10% rather than 20% as estimated a few weeks earlier.

The stock market's response to NOVO, which was paralleled in London, was the second shock for the company. In August, when half-year results were made public, the stock took the first 25% beating as the results were disappointing. Thus NOVO stock has fallen about 50% in value in just a few months.

The stock market crisis for NOVO seems to be more a matter of reporting and confidence than lack of positive news. Management has changed its reporting policy from optimistic to conservative, and analysts did not know or expect this. Figures taken into account the market response was unusually hostile.

DANES DO WELL IN KD SHOW

Some 22 Danish furniture manufacturers participated in an international market denoted to "ready to assemble" furniture held in the New York

Coliseum in September. Kit furniture, or KD (knock down) as it is known generically, is a fast growing category that is gaining recognition for its quality as well as its moderate price tags.

Participating Danish companies are members either of the Association of Danish Furniture Industry or Danish Furniture Manufacturers Association. Jan Kjør Andersen of the latter organization reported that most of the manufacturers had done exceptionally well as to furniture and chain stores. They are enthusiastic about participating next year. (The question this writer would ask: In the meantime, what are they going to do about marketing to ensure their position in the market?)

The Danish Pavillion, painted crisp white and yellow, housed furnishings that included seating, cabinets, tables, lamps and accessories. Their common factor is that all are sold in boxes, easy to carry out of a store, and easy to assemble home.

The Danes are to be congratulated for their visual presentation in the design of the pavillion and the graphic of accompanying brochures.

The international KD exhibition originated in Paris a few years ago, and this was the first year it was held in the United States.

ROVSING SOLD TO ITT

The Danish computer star, Christian Rovsing, collapsed and claimed bankruptcy less than two months ago. On October 24 most of the company core was sold to ITT and the Danish pension fund PKA for D.kr. 90 million. The capital investment was D.kr. 225 million.

During the last few weeks four divisions have been sold off. The U.S. subsidiaries of Rovsing have not been taken care of, however. Christian Rovsing Corporation in California is in Chapter 11 and President Børge Riis- Vestergaard has been substituted with Steen Houghs after having tried unsuccessfully to take over the firm.

Electronic Design Incorporated in Massachusetts has not been sold either. The President of EDI, Mr. Paul Laskow, has offered to buy the company for a little under $2 million. No decision has been made as to the future of EDI which has 70 employees and sales of about $7 million per year.

EIGHT DANES HONORED BY LO

For the sixth time LO - the federation of Danish trade unions - has distributed its cultural prize. Eight recipients were honored with flowers, small sculptures and a check of D.kr. 25,000 each. To some it was a provocation that Mr. Ivan Barrington, Director of Dansk Folke Ferie, which was recently accused of discrimination against disabled persons at their holiday centers, was among the prize winners. Erik Paaske, the beloved actor and singer, was perhaps the most popular choice.

NATIONAL SOCIAL PENSION

By Act No. 217 of May 16, 1984, effective as of October 1, 1984, some changes of the regulations pertaining to social pensions have been introduced.

For Danes living abroad the following information may be useful.

I. Danish nationals are eligible for old age pension (folkepension) no matter where they are resident, provided they have been resident in Denmark for a minimum of 30 years between the age of 15 and 67 (equal to entitlement to at least 3/4 of a full pension).

When calculating the time of residency the following situations will be considered equal to actual residency in Denmark:

1. Engagements onboard Danish ships.
2. Stays abroad as official representatives of Danish public authorities.
3. Stays abroad representing public Danish interests.
4. Stays abroad as employee with a branch office of a Danish commercial company or subsidiary.
5. Stays abroad for study purposes.

Application for a pension is to be submitted to the social and health department of the municipality where the claimant was last resident. Applicants without previous residence in Denmark must apply to the National Social Security Office (Sikringsstyrelsen).

II. For persons not meeting the requirements of at least 30 years residency in Denmark it is - as previously - a condition for obtaining an old age pension that residency has been established.

Old age pension will be awarded immediately upon moving to Denmark, however, transfer of payments after a later move to a foreign country can only take place exceptionally.

Danish nationals who have been awarded old pension or anticipatory pension (førtidspension) while they were resident in Denmark may have the pension paid abroad if they move to another country provided they have been resident in Denmark for a minimum of 10 years after the age of 15 and immediately prior to the date from which the pension is payable.

The Consulate General will be happy to send a copy of the new Act and a summary prepared by the Ministry of Social Affairs, International Relations Division, upon request.

BIGGEST DANISH DEAL

Superfos of Denmark has acquired Royster, a large U.S. corporation, for the sum of almost $110 million. This is the largest Danish-controlled takeover ever. Together Superfos and Royster will be one of the world's 10 largest fertilizer companies.

Royster was sold by Universal Leaf Tobacco Co. although it is profitable. The American tobacco giant wanted to get out of an unfamiliar business. Royster employs more than 1,000 people and had sales of $350 million last year.

Superfos USA in Connecticut has functioned as an advance position for the company's expansion. Apart from Royster some smaller American companies have been acquired. Financing of the Royster deal is done partly by Nordic American Banking Corporation, Privatbanken, European American Bank, Creditanstalt in Austria and two banks in Virginia, where Royster is located.

According to Jørgen Trugved, CEO of Superfos, the next step will be to list the company on the American Stock Exchange. This may happen in early 1986.

Wheat production is estimated at a record 2.25 million tons, up 42% from last year, while coarse grain production is estimated at 6.62 million, an increase of 36% from 1983/84. Barley output is measured at 5.93 million tons, 33% above last year. Ideal weather plus a shift to higher yielding winter wheats combined to produce a record average wheat yield of 7.40 tons a hectare, 10% above the previous high in 1982/83. Average barley yields is estimated at a record 4.80 tons a hectare, an increase of 12% from the previous record high achieved in 1982/83.

Strength of Character

We live in trendy times, with instant status and fickle tastes. Yet, happily, true character continues to endure. As do the people who consider it the only source and measure of accomplishment.

For over a thousand years, the Danes have valued those qualities that go into making the Danish character. It is this heritage of integrity, perfection and consistency that also goes into making the character of their renowned Carlsberg beer.

Character you can taste with your very first glass.

Taste the integrity that carefully ages Carlsberg twice as long as ordinary lagers.

Taste the perfection that will only be satisfied with the finest Danish barley and selected hops.

Above all, taste the dedication to consistency that has earned Carlsberg the enviable reputation as probably the best lager in the world.

A reputation that comes from brewing Carlsberg to just a single criteria—character. But to the Danes, character is everything.

Carlsberg. Character You Can Taste.™

DANISH MEDICAL DOCTOR GETS NOBEL PRIZE

The 72-year old immunologue Niels K. Jerne was awarded the 1984 Nobel prize in medicine together with a German and an Argentine colleague. This is the fifth time a Dane receives the Nobel prize in medicine.

Mr. Jerne was born in England by Danish parents but was raised and educated in Denmark. He left Denmark in 1956 for an international career in USA, Germany, Switzerland and France. In 1969 he founded a now world-renowned institute for immunology in Basel, Switzerland.

BJØRNVIG TOURS USA

The Danish author Thorkild Bjørnvig has been on a seven-week tour of 14 American universities to lecture on Karen Blixen, his relationship with her, and his own literary works.

"Who am I? The Story of the Identity of Karen Blixen" is the title of one of Mr. Bjørnvig's lectures. The other one - on his own works - is called "The Monster and the Wonder" and subtitled "Means against Narcissism", the major disease of America today according to Bjørnvig.

A professor at the Danish department at the University of Wisconsin arranged the tour which is supported by the Danish Ministry for Cultural Affairs and the Danish Art Foundation (Statens Kunstfond).

At a luncheon at the residence of the Danish Consul General in New York Mr. Bjørnvig met some of the authors, critics and publishers who have taken particular interest in his works - especially "The Pact" on his relationship with Karen Blixen.
